UNIT VISITATION TRACKING SYSTEM

OVERVIEW

- Allows unit commissioners to track information about visits to their units
- All commissioners may access the system
 - Unit commissioners can add and edit visit information, and they can see their most recent five visits on the Home page with a link to each visit
 - Unit commissioners can add visit information only to the units to which they are assigned
 - District commissioners can view the visits made by their unit commissioners
 - Visit information is stored in the system for one year

Focus Unit Visit Tracking System Help Overview This system will allow unit commissioners to track information about visits to their units. All commissioners may access the system; unit commissioners can add and edit visit information, and they can see their most recent five visits on the Home page with a link to each visit. Unit commissioners can add visit information only to the units to which they are assigned. District commissioners can view the visits made by their unit commissioners. Visit information is stored in the system for one year. Visits Click the Visits tab. District commissioners can view visit information on this page. Unit commissioners can view and edit the information. Commissioners will see those visits assigned to their commissioner position; for example district commissioners can view visit information for the district assigned to them. Unit commissioners can view the information for the units assigned to them. To view visits Visit details included on this page are visit date, attendees, type of visit, unit, and district, plus up to five quality program indicators, including Planning, Program, Leadership, Tone, and Attendance. To view a definition of each indicator Click the Quality Indicators link. The resulting information appears in a new window. Quality indicators are observational points used to measure not only the quality of visits, but also the level of engagement. They are: Planning Did the observed program reflect prior planning and adequate preparation?
